Weather Bureau Seeks Protection Against Tornadoes

WASHINGTON—Tornado Alley," the incubator of nature's deadliest storms, is being watched this year as never before.

Once a twister has bored down to earth, the only defense is to get out of the way. To save more lives, Weather Bureau scientists are devising new tools to quicken warning systems and learn more about the nature of the complex storms.

One new instrument forces potential tornadoes to flash their own alarm. Called a "pressure-jump indicator," it records the ominous rise in pressure that often signals the birth of a tornado in storm-breeding squall lines.

It is these long frontiers of thunder, wind, and rain that turn unstable air currents into roaring, spinning funnels of destruction.

This year, more than 100 pressure-jump indicators are being operated in the severe storm belt—Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas. The instruments have been set up in police stations, fire houses, city jails, and other places where attendants voluntarily keep an eye on them 24 hours a day.

If barometric pressure rises suddenly, a light goes on and a buzzer sounds until turned off. The observer alerts the nearest weather station by telephone.

Radar then starts tracking the dangerous squall line, according to Dr. Morris Tepper, chief of the Bureau's severe-storms research unit.

Planets Have Own Heating Systems

WASHINGTON—The giant planets of the solar system—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune—have their own internal heating systems. Though they are far from the sun, the amount of solar heat they receive is enough to maintain a temperature of 225 degrees below zero on Jupiter, and somewhat lower temperatures on the others.

There is growing evidence that the sun is not the only source of heat these planets have, according to Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, of Yerkes Observatory. The vast "weather" phenomena observed on these planets cannot be caused by solar heat alone, but may be explained by some form of internal heat, perhaps resulting from the concentration of mass toward the center of the still contracting planets, Dr. Kuiper points out in outlining still unsolved problems in the solar system astronomy.

In the atmosphere of Saturn, for example, clouds as large as the entire earth can be detected about once a decade. They are apparently due to major eruptions from the planet's interior. Dr. Kuiper says. Because different zones of the very thick atmosphere rotate at different speeds, the clouds soon stretch out into belts parallel to the Equator. Similar cloud formations are observed, somewhat oftener, on Jupiter. They vary in color—brick red, chocolate brown, blue, amber, and white.

Ingenious Insects Stay Dry Walking on Water

WASHINGTON—Water provides a dry home to a surprising assortment of creatures.

Through ingenious adaptations, they stay dry as they walk, eat, fight, and reproduce on the thin film that covers ponds and lakes, rivers and oceans.

Insects that live on the film have special equipment. They are light, and their feet are covered with tiny hairs, coated with water-repellent wax.

Some are heavy enough to bend the water into little dimples where their feet touch, but the film does not break. The depressions in the surface throw shadows on the bottom in shallow water, often seen more easily than the insect itself.

Americans Smoking More Than Ever Now

WASHINGTON — Americans are smoking more cigarettes than ever, despite reports indicating a link between smoking and lung cancer, a government tobacco expert stated.

It was indicated that Americans consumed 399 billion cigarettes in the fiscal year ending June 30, a 3 per cent increase over the preceding year.

The government expert said a decline in smoking in the 1953-54 coincided with newspaper stories, magazine articles and television programs concerning smoking and lung cancer. At that time, cigarette consumption dropped to 378 billion after reaching 397 billion a year earlier.

...first meeting of the Appo...mattox Baptist Association after the church was organized, application was made to become a member church in this body. On August 21, 1907, the church was accepted unanimously into the Association. A membership numbering 89 was reported on this date. The names of these 89 persons were entered upon the Church Roll and Record Book as Charter Members. This book has been preserved in perfect condition. Of the 89 charter members of the church, 28 are known to be living.

Around the first of the year, 1908, the church called its first pastor, Rev. T. H. Binford, and became part of a church field with Elon Baptist Church, Pamplin, and the Matthews Baptist Church, Hisburg. The first revival meeting, a union revival with the Methodist Church, resulted in nine additions to the church by Baptism. These were: Obediah Almond, W. L. Brown, and Cassie Paulett, who are deceased, and Henry Almond, Annie Cheatham, Beatrice Inge, Eunice Inge, Ida Mae Farrar and Lizzie Paulett, who are still living. On August 30, 1908, the new church was dedicated. The Rev. William Headley, of Reidsville, N. C., preached the dedicatory sermon. Miss Kate Franklin was organist for this event and it is planned that she render special music on the day of the Anniversary Program.

During the fifty years of its existance, the church has experienced a gradual and steady growth. In 1910 a Ladies Aid came into being with Mrs. P. T. Warren as President. This organization became a Woman's Missionary Union in 1917, with Mrs. Massie Hamilton as President. According to the records, she served in this office until 1940, a period of over 23 years. A bronze plaque, given in honor of her faithful and devoted service, is now displayed near the pulpit in the church.

In 1924, a Baptist Young Peoples Union was organized with Miss Ruth Burnette serving as President. This organization was later enlarged and expanded to include persons of all ages and the name changed to the Baptist Training Union.

Since a Sunday School had been maintained from the beginning of the church, the organization of a Baptist Brotherhood in 1952 qualified the church to be designated as a Four Star Church. This means that the church has all the organizations that are included in the plans of the Southern Baptist Convention.

In 1925 the church went into the field with Rocks, Central, and Hollywood. The four churches remained a field until 1956, when Evergreen formed a field with the Red Oak Church. The four-church field parsonage was bought by Rocks, Hollywood and Central and the Evergreen Church built a new, spacious brick parsonage on a lot given by Mr. E. W. Farrar which adjoins the church property.

The records of the church indicate that it has had 7 supply pastors and 16 regular pastors during its history. Among the former pastors the following are known to be alive: R. T. Smith, Exmore; Carl A. Collins, Appomattox, Virginia; Cecil G. Carter, Salem, Virginia; Tearie Brown, Danville, Virginia; David L. Bailey, Warwick, Virginia; R. E. Harris, Jr., Wake Forest, N. C.; and the first pastor, T. H. Binford, Blairs, Virginia.

The present officers of the church are listed as follows: Pastor, J. E. Greene; Clerk, R. H. Wooldridge; Treasurer, H. B. Cralle; Choirister, Z. V. Harvey; Pianist, Gladys Harvey; Chairman of Deacons, J. M. Harvey; Church Secretary, Barbara Wooldridge; Sunday School Superintendent, R. J. Paulette, Jr.; Training Union Director, Z. V. Harvey; W. M. U. President, Mrs. J. K. Hamilton; Brotherhood President, David Paulette; V. B. S. Superintendent, Rosa Mae Wooldridge.

BUDGET CUTS

While Congress slashed President Eisenhower's requests for new appropriations by $4,914,355,584 or 7.7 per cent, the real meaning of the cuts will not be evident for some time.
